The eastern delegates are determined to adhere to Edmunds and as they are divided in opinion it is likely their strength will be divided between Sherman, Gresham and Hawley for some time. These managers consider that the point of danger for them is a drift from Blaine to Arthur. If this can be prevented they hope for a favorable result

The Tribune this morning bristles all over with bright articles for Blaine and claims that there is no cause for discouragement on account of the Powell Clayton incident, which is not regarded as a real test. It compliments Lynch and the southern colored delegates, and attacks boldly George William Curtis, Roosevelt and others whom it styles political dudes. It says the resolution introduced by Mr Pearce to decrease the representation from the south hereafter is an ungracious return for help received yesterday from the south

PACIFIC COASTERS INTERVIEWED

What does the election of Lynch signify? was asked of W W Morrow, chairman of the Pacific slope delegation

It signifies that Mr Blaine's supporters are right in claiming that he represents by far the larger force in the convention. It had been said that Mr Clayton had the support of Blaine's friends. Then it is very plain that he has within a few votes of the necessary number to receive the nomination on the first ballot. It is undoubtedly true that a number of delegates voted for Clayton who will not vote for Blaine on the first ballot, but it is evident that they will vote for him after the first or the second ballot. Then there were a number of delegates who voted for Lynch who will vote for Blaine on the first ballot. It seems to me that Blaine will be nominated before the fourth or fifth ballot.

Colonel C F Crocker said: "Mr Blaine's friends never claimed a majority of the entire convention on the first ballot and we do not consider it as a test of its final strength. It is simply a settlement of whether he is to be nominated on the first ballot or soon thereafter"

William H Park of California said: "It is very favorable to Blaine. It developed strength of at least forty votes more than ever had been claimed by his friends"

Then you consider that Clayton's strength represents his?

"Not entirely. There were some few who voted to sustain the action of the committee who will not vote for Blaine. To offset that there were a large number of Blaine's friends who voted for Lynch in order to please the southern delegates. To me the outlook never seemed better than it does now"

THE CONVENTION CALLED TO ORDER.

The convention was called to order at 11:17. There was an immense attendance. The weather is clear.

Prayer was offered by Dr John H Barrows of the First Presbyterian church, in the course of which he spoke of the vast moral and political changes which he had not forgotten, as indicated by the presence of the man who now so worthily presided over the convention, and he asked a blessing on the race and the commonwealth and the cause which that gentleman represented. He prayed that when the convention had dissolved it would have presented to the suffrages of the nation for the highest office in the people's gift, a candidate who in personal character, in devotion to duty, in loyalty to American institutions, in courage and spirit should worthily succeed to the chair of Washington, and thus help the nation to become not only more prosperous and great and beautiful but also to be an inspiration and a blessing to the struggling people of the world

James A Gary of Maryland presented a memorial and asked that it be read. It is from the president and secretary of the State Temperance Alliance of that state embodying resolutions passed by that body May 30 appealing to the conventions of the republican and democratic parties to embody a clause in their platforms distinctly recognizing prohibition and to nominate candidates in accordance therewith and saying if neither recognized this principle the memorialists would vote for neither and if one of these did so the ballots of the alliance would be cast for the candidate of that party

Massey of Delaware offered a resolution, referred to the committee on resolutions, to enlarge the term of the presidential office to six years and to render an incumbent of the office ineligible to re-election

SHALL THE DELEGATES BE PLEDGED

A resolution that all the delegates should bind themselves to support the nominee, whoever he may be, created a war of discussion

Plumb of Kansas offered a resolution against the ownership of lands in this country by foreigners as a system opposed to the doctrines of the fathers. Referred

Hawkins of Tennessee offered a resolution pledging all the delegates to support the nominee of this convention whoever he may be.

The resolution binding the delegates was withdrawn

Pierce of Massachusetts opposed Hawkins' resolution, hoping the convention would not bind its conscience in the manner proposed

Winkler of Wisconsin also opposed the resolution

The committee on credentials reported that it could not make a complete report till in the afternoon or evening

Winkler continuing said it was a declaration on the part of every delegate that he would support the nominee of the convention and he thought that no such declaration was necessary

Hawkins of Tennessee said he had offered the resolution in good faith and instructed that no man would be found voting against it

General J B Henderson was reported by the committee on permanent organization as chairman

Hawkins continued: If any delegate was not willing to support the nominee of the convention he should not participate in its deliberations. [Cheers.] No harm could come of its adoption and he thought its adoption desirable in view of certain whisperings in the air

A CALIFORNIAN'S VIEWS

Mr Knight of California said: "Mr Chairman—I hope that the resolution will pass [applause.] No honest republican, no man having the good of the great republican party at heart should dare to stand on the floor of this convention and vote down the resolution. [Cheers.] There are already whisperings in the air from men high in the republican party openly and avowedly declaring that they will not support one man if he be nominated by this convention, a convention of the most intelligent men of this nation. That kind of men we want to know, and the sooner they are out of the party the better it will be for the party. [Cheers.] Gentlemen of the convention, no more enthusiastic people are under the shadow of the American flag than those in the section that I come from, no more enthusiastic people for their candidate can be found in this convention, but if he should not be the choice I believe we would be false to every principle of the republican party, we would be false to the constituency we represent, we would be false to ourselves if we did not abide by the nominee of this party of intelligence. [Tremendous applause.] Tell me what reason can be urged that these men, gentlemen of this convention, selected alone for their intelligence, their patriotism, their zeal in behalf of the republican party, shall not support the nominee. None can be. Therefore, gentlemen of the convention, I hope we will insist from the section of country that we come from, that this be voted for, and that whoever he may be he will have the hearty support and votes of this convention, and all those, be they editors of newspapers, renouncing great political journals, who refuse to support the nominee, let them be branded. [Tremendous applause and cheers.] that they not only have betrayed a violated faith that the masses put in them but the direct and honest convictions of this convention expressed by a direct vote on the subject

GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS

When Mr Knight took his seat about seventy-five delegates arose in different parts of the hall and insisted on being recognized by the chairman. The chair refused to recognize any of them and repeatedly asked them to be seated. Reluctantly they took their seats and a moment after the confusion had subsided the chair said: "The chair recognizes the gentleman from New York" (George William Curtis)

Mr Curtis climbed upon his chair and began to speak. He said "Mr Chairman—" but at this point loud calls came up from all parts of the house of "Platform, platform, platform!" Mr Curtis shook his head and retaining his position on the chair said:

"Gentlemen of the convention, republicans and freemen—I came into this convention by the grace of God a republican, and a republican will I go out of this convention. [Cheers.] Twenty-four years ago I was here in Chicago; twenty-four years ago I took part with men of this country who nominated the man whose name is the most illustrious name in the republican party, and the brightest ray in whose halo of glory and immortality is that he was a great emancipator. [Cheers, and cries of "Good! good!"] In that convention, sir, a resolution was offered as an amendment of the platform. It proposed to embody into that platform certain words from the declaration of independence. That was voted down in that convention and Joshua R Giddings of Ohio rose from his seat and was passing out of the convention. As he went to pass by my chair I reached out my hand, well nigh a boy and unknown to him. I said 'Sir, where are you going?' He said to me 'Young man, I am going out of this convention, since there is no place in the republican constitution for an old time anti-slavery man.'

"But, gentlemen, after all he stopped, and again took his seat, and before the convention was concluded the republican party declared that no word, no deed, no sign should ever be made in a republican convention that in the slightest degree reflected on the honor or loyalty of the men who took part in that convention, and upon that adherence to liberty. [Loud applause.]

A PRECEDENT CITED

"The gentleman who was last upon the floor dared any one on this floor to vote against that resolution. I say to him in reply that the present action on such a resolution in such a convention as this is an outrage and an insult upon every man who stands here. This question is not a new question. Exactly the same motion was brought up at the last convention, and a man from West Virginia, I honor the name of that man, said in the face of roaring galleries and in the face of all this audience, 'I am a republican who carries his sovereignty under his own hat.' [Loud applause.] No, Mr Chairman, Mr Campbell's position in that convention was the wise reflection and afterthought of the republican convention of 1880 under the lead of that great and immortal leader whose face fronts us there, James A Garfield of Ohio [applause]; under the lead of Garfield, I remind my friend from California, the convention hailed the gentleman who presented the resolution to withdraw that resolution from the consideration of the convention. Now, sir, in the light of the character of the republican party, in the light of the action of the last republican convention, the first convention of which I have known in which such pledge was required of its members, I ask the convention to be mindful of all that hangs upon the wisdom, moderation, temperance and patriotism of our action. I beg this convention to remember Lincoln, to remember Garfield, to remember every vital principle of the republican party, and assume that every man here who is an honest and an honorable man will vote this resolution down, which should never have appeared in a republican convention, as unworthy to be ratified by this concourse of free men here before me. [Applause.]

The chair decided that, as far as possible, the rules of the house of representatives would be followed, allowing alternate speeches for and against. This ruling was made in response to an appeal for recognition from two delegates at once. The chair decided in favor of the man who wanted to speak for the resolution

Senator Dolph of Oregon moved to lay the resolution on the table.

Hawkins said that as his resolution had developed so much opposition he would withdraw it.

Ewing of Pennsylvania made a report from the committee on credentials, to the effect that it hoped to be able to complete its labors this afternoon

A BLOW AT THE SOUTH

Ewing of Pennsylvania offered the following resolution: That hereafter in the selection by district conventions the basis of representation of the several counties, parts of counties or wards shall be the same as that which at the time prevails in each district respectively for the nomination of republican candidates for members of congress, and wherever a majority of the counties of such districts containing not less than one half the population of a district shall regularly unite in the call and conduct of the convention, the action thereof shall be valid. Referred

Hon George B Williams of Indiana, chairman of the committee on permanent organization, reported that the committee had selected General John B Henderson of Missouri for permanent chairman, and would request the secretary to read the list of vice presidents and secretaries. Charles W Clisbee of Michigan was selected as principal secretary. The report was agreed to

The chair appointed Galusha A Grow of Pennsylvania, George F Hoar of Massachusetts and George B Williams of Indiana a committee to conduct the permanent chairman to the platform. General Henderson was received with cheers

CHAIRMAN HENDERSON'S SPEECH

Following is the speech of General Henderson of Missouri, permanent chairman:

Gentlemen of the Convention:—We have assembled to survey the past history of the party, to rejoice as we may because of the good it has done, to correct errors if errors there be, to discover if possible the wants of the present and with patriotic firmness to provide for the future. Our past history is the Union preserved, slavery abolished and its former victims equally and honorably placed by our sides in this convention, the public faith maintained, unbounded credit at home and abroad, a currency convertible into coin, and the pulse of industry throbbing with renewed health and vigor in every section of a prosperous and peaceful country. These are the fruits of triumphs over adverse policies gained in the military and civil conflicts of the last twenty-four years. Out of these conflicts have come a race of heroes and statesmen challenging confidence and love at home and respect and admiration abroad. And now when we come to select a standard bearer for the approaching contest our chief embarrassment is not in the abundance of presidential materials

THE CANDIDATES

New York has her true statesman upon whose administration the fierce and even unfriendly light of public scrutiny has been turned, and the universal verdict is: Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Vermont has her great statesman whose record is as clear as the crystal springs of his native state and whose virtue is as firm as its granite hills. Ohio can come with a name whose history is of the republican party itself. Illinois can come with one who never failed in the discharge of a public duty, whether in the council chamber or on the field of battle. Maine has her honored favorite whose splendid abilities and personal qualities have endeared him to the hearts of friends, and the brilliancy of whose genius challenges the admiration of all. Connecticut and Indiana may come with names scarcely less illustrious than these. And now in conclusion if because of personal disagreement or the emergencies of the occasion another name is sought there yet remains that grand old hero of Atlanta. When patriotism calls him he cannot, if he would, be silent, but grasping that banner so dear to him which he has already borne in triumph he will march to a civic victory no less renowned than those of war. I thank you, gentlemen, for this distinguished mark of your confidence

THE CONVENTION GOES WILD

The allusions to Arthur, Sherman, Edmunds, Logan were heartily applauded, but when Blaine was alluded to as a man whose splendid abilities and personal qualities had endeared him to the hearts of his friends and whose brilliancy had [illegible] the admiration of mankind a storm of applause broke out, and on the stage, the floor and the galleries men stood up and waving their hats and handkerchiefs cheered again and again. Women also took part in the demonstration and waved their fans and handkerchiefs. After the first storm of applause had worn itself out it was renewed, and once again, and the enthusiasm was as marked and intense as that which characterized the convention of 1880 at the time of Garfield's nomination. It was fully five minutes before the chairman was able to resume and finish his speech

Stebbins of Arizona presented a resolution to the effect that the appointment of territorial officers by the president of the United States should be from actual residents of such territories. Referred to the committee on resolutions

A delegate from California presented a resolution to the effect that the commissioner of agriculture be made a cabinet officer. Referred to the committee on resolutions

A woman suffrage resolution was presented and referred to the committee on resolutions

At 1:20 P M the convention adjourned till 7 o'clock

COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS

The committee on credentials has been in session almost continuously for twenty four hours and up to 4 o'clock this afternoon had only disposed of the Seventh Alabama, First Georgia, Fifth Kentucky, Second Illinois and the District of Columbia cases, leaving two New York and two Pennsylvania and the remaining Kentucky cases undetermined and also the Virginia contested seats. In the Seventh Alabama R A Mosby and Arthur Bingham, the regulars, are seated over Warner and Hamlin. The seated delegates are Arthur men. A M Wilson and James B [illegible] were seated in the First Georgia district over [illegible] Lawson and Green. The men admitted are Arthur delegates. In the Second Illinois district there was a sharp contest, but Henry Reiger and Charles Piper, adherents of Logan, were admitted. Two hours were consumed before a decision was reached in the Fifth Kentucky case, and the contest resulted in seating E A Wilson and Michael Winton, Blaine men. The vote stood 26 to 21. It is believed that the fight in these cases will be renewed in the convention to-night

EVENING SESSION

Chairman Henderson called the convention to order at 7:35 P M, and made the following announcement: Gentlemen, there is a communication in the hands of the secretary from the committee on credentials, which will be read to the convention

The secretary read the communication as follows: To the chairman of the republican national convention, sir: Your committee on credentials have the honor to notify the convention that as important business is occupying the time of the committee the committee will not be able to report this evening. The communication was signed by the chairman of the committee

Mr Curtis of New York—I hold in my hand a petition of the American peace union which I ask to have referred to the committee on resolutions

The chair—It will be so referred

Mr Mathews of Illinois—I desire to introduce a resolution, which I ask to be read to the convention

The secretary read the resolution as follows:

Resolved, That the committee on distribution of tickets be hereby instructed to furnish 500 tickets of admission during the session of this convention to be given to veteran soldiers who desire to witness the proceedings

Mr Matthews of Illinois—I ask the unanimous consent of the convention to adopt and pass that resolution

The chair—Is the motion seconded?

A delegate seconded the motion

Mr Matthews—It may be observed that there are soldiers here who have come over 100 miles to witness the proceedings of the convention, and to enable them to do so this resolution is introduced, and I hope the convention will adopt it unanimously

Thurston of Nebraska—I rise to ask a question. I wish to ask in what manner, and to what persons, the distribution of these tickets will be issued?

A delegate from Pennsylvania—I move to amend by adding "and that they be distributed according to representation of the floor of this convention, to the chairmen of the various delegations"

A delegate—I second that motion

General Clayton of Arkansas—Mr Chairman: Having been one of the members of the sub-committee who had charge of the apportionment of seats in this convention, and having some knowledge of its seating capacity, I desire to say that in the apportionment of these seats every seat was provided for by tickets, and that if tickets are issued sufficient to fill every seat in this hall. Now if these tickets are to be issued I would like to know where the gentlemen are to be seated. Otherwise I would be very glad, indeed, to see them here, but unless you have seats for these gentlemen and unless they come and stand in the aisles it will make confusion. If you can provide for the seating of these gentlemen I shall be very glad to adopt the resolution

WILLING TO STAND

Matthews of Illinois—In reply to the remarks of the gentleman of Arkansas I want to say that while it may be true that tickets are issued for every seat in the hall it is equally true that these seats are not occupied half the time, but if one of these veterans is permitted to occupy a seat and the holder of the ticket therefor should come along and demand it, I will say to this convention that they will yield to the authority of that ticket. I want to say further that while these seats were occupied these men would be glad to stand around in the aisles and passages, to the end that they might witness these proceedings. All these men ask is to be permitted to come into the hall and occupy such seats as are not occupied by gentlemen or ladies holding accredited tickets to those seats

Lee of Florida—The state of Florida was entitled to so many tickets and yet that state has been unable to obtain those tickets. There are I understand twenty five seats that belong to that state. If that state can not in any other manner obtain the benefit of those tickets she is willing to yield those twenty-five seats that the veterans may obtain seats and witness the proceedings. [Applause.]

Mr Massey of Delaware—I rise to make an amendment, and that is that the resolution be so modified that the distribution shall be made of those tickets by a special committee of the delegation from Illinois [Cries of "no, no"] so that these tickets—[Cries of "no! no!" and hisses.] If the suggestion made on the right of the hall, by whom I know not, for I did not recognize the mover, is to be carried into effect, then it necessarily will follow that a great many of the states represented here on this floor, from which no Union soldiers are present, will receive seats, and the purpose intended to be accomplished by the resolution will have failed. [Cries of "no! no!"] I say that if no other arrangement than that now contemplated by the suggestion be carried into effect it will be futile to reach the object desired, and therefore I would suggest that the resolution be so modified as to contemplate distribution through a special committee from the Illinois delegation, to be selected by themselves. [Cries of "no! no!"]

The Chair—Before the vote at all be taken I desire to state that I have just been informed by a member of the national committee that tickets have been issued for every seat. Is the house ready for the question? All in favor of the adoption of the resolution will say aye, others no. The noes seem to have it. The noes have it and the resolution is defeated. [Slight applause.]

THE CONVENTION ADJOURNS

Long of Massachusetts—I move that the convention now adjourn until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. [Cries of "Eleven."] I will accept the amendment of 11 o'clock

The chair—It is moved and seconded that the convention now adjourn until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock

Mr Hussey of Maine—I wish to amend that by making it at 10 o'clock. I understand that at that time the committee on credentials will be ready to report. It must necessarily be a lengthy session, and there will be also a report from the committee on rules, and it is necessary to transact this business more expeditiously in order to get to the close of this convention. [Cries of "Half past ten" and "Eleven o'clock."]

At this point a number of delegates and others rose and cries of "Ingersoll" were heard. After some minutes it was discovered that Mr Ingersoll was not present, the gentleman who had been mistaken for him being a Mr Allen, who had been called for by some delegates, the call having been mistaken for one for Mr Ingersoll

A delegate—I ask for the question upon the motion. [Cries of "11 o'clock."]

Another delegate—The motion to adjourn until 11 o'clock has been accepted by the mover of the original motion

The chair—The question now is to adjourn until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. To that motion there is an amendment to adjourn until 10 o'clock instead of 11. Is that seconded? [Cries all over the house, "I second the motion."] Those in favor of the motion will say aye, opposed no.

The noes being louder and in more force the chairman said the noes have it and the convention is now adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. [Loud cries of "No, no!"] through the house and general confusion

The Chair—I wish to state for the information of the gentlemen of the convention that a telegram has been received by Senator Dolph at Chicago from the state of Oregon saying that in the election in that state on Monday of this week the republicans carried a majority of the legislature, which secures [illegible]. [Loud cries of "Read it! read it!" and "louder!"] Also hisses were heard throughout the house

The secretary reading the message—To the Hon J N Dolph, of the city of Chicago—I have to report that there is no longer any doubt that the republicans have carried a majority of the legislature of this state, which will secure a gain of a senator to the United States senate. [Tremendous applause.] They have elected a republican representative to congress, and Oregon is safe

AFTER ADJOURNMENT

After the adjournment of the convention and while the hall was still crowded there were loud calls for Ingersoll and Oglesby. The calls were kept up for a long time. Mr Ingersoll did not respond to them, but ex Governor Richard J Oglesby did and made a long and amusing speech alluding in complimentary terms to the various candidates for the presidential nomination. Arthur, Edmunds, Blaine, the two Shermans, ex Governor Fairchild of Wisconsin, General U S Grant, Harrison, Gresham and others were in turn complimented by the speaker, and were applauded by the audience. In conclusion he announced that the republican party was going to win, and that the American people would not allow that party to retire from the exercise of the sole and powers of the nation

After Oglesby had finished his speech there were calls for Fred Douglass, to which after a time that gentleman responded. He excused himself however from making a speech on account of the loss of his voice.

Then the calls for Ingersoll were renewed, but as that gentleman was not present a substitute was suggested in the person of Congressman Horr of Michigan, who came forward and made a speech. He remarked that six months ago they had been told that the republican nomination for the presidency would go a begging, but there was not much sign of its going a begging to-night; the edict had gone forth that this convention would name the next president. The republicans had named the presidents for twenty four years, they had got into the habit of it, and were not going to break up the habit this year. He ridiculed the democratic majority in the house of representatives and its utter failure in the way of tariff revision. God, he said, would not have put the gold and coal and iron in the bowels of the land if he thought the democratic party was going to run the country and abolish the tariff

HAWKINS' MOTION TO PLEDGE THE DELEGATES

After Hawkins of Tennessee had made his motion pledging each member of the convention to support the candidate whoever he might be, and Knight of California and others had made stirring speeches in favor of supporting it, there was an impression on the part of many that it would be adopted. Yet it was widely felt that it ought to be rejected. The speeches of Curtis and others against it created a great deal of feeling. It was shown that a like resolution was introduced in the last national convention, and the history of the stand made by Campbell of West Virginia was not lost sight of on this very question, with a reminder of the fact that Garfield in a famous speech sustained Campbell, and opposed the resolution, were recalled with great effect. So earnest was the spirit of the convention of 1880 against the same effort to gag the delegates that Conkling was constrained to withdraw his resolution. After Curtis had finished speaking Dolph of Oregon, amid great applause, moved to table Hawkins' resolution. A vote was about to be called when Hawkins, seeing the resolution would be rejected by a great vote, asked leave to withdraw it, and thus the spirit of independence was once more vindicated in a national republican convention

CLAYTON MAKES AN EXPLANATION

General Powell Clayton in an interview to-day said: "The assertion has been made by eastern newspapers that I had pledged myself and the Arkansas delegation to Arthur and am now unfairly leaving him. The fact is that I have never spoken or written a word to him on the subject of his candidacy. I felt friendly to him and do yet, and if he had developed sufficient strength in his own state and other northern states that give republican majorities I would have supported him, and I think the Arkansas delegation would have joined me in this conclusion, although three of the delegates from the first have been adverse to him. Our state convention was the second one held, Louisiana holding the first. At that time no northern state had voiced its wishes, hence we had no light on the subject of southern preference, and for that very reason our state convention had no instruction whatever as to how its delegates should vote, it being generally understood that our unpledged delegation at Chicago should be governed by the result of conventions in the states that give electoral votes. When I ascertained that Arthur had carried only about twelve republican congressional delegations in the Union and had failed to carry his own state I reluctantly came to the conclusion that his candidacy was hopeless

A FIGHT

John T Turner of Alabama this evening assaulted Brewster Cameron, ex chief examiner of the department of justice, in the rotunda of the Grand Pacific hotel. Cameron turned upon him and struck him a severe blow on the head with his cane. Paul Strobach of Alabama, seeing his friend was getting the worst of the encounter, began punching Cameron with his umbrella. The latter however was fully equal to the occasion and came out first best in the fight. The occasion for the assault, Mr Cameron says, was evidence which he was compelled to give before the committee on expenditures in the department of justice concerning the conduct of certain Alabama marshals

A CRY FOR BLAINE

The following dispatch from Detroit explains itself: W W Morrow, chairman of the California state delegation, Chicago—A vote of members of the Detroit board of trade to-day resulted as follows: Blaine 96, Edmunds 28, Arthur 20, John Sherman 1. Give us Blaine or give us death. This is signed by members of the Detroit board of trade

Points from Various Points.

PRESS COMMENT

New York, June 4—[Special]—The Tribune says: If the vote for temporary chairman was a test vote Blaine's supporters have reason to rejoice, since it gave him thirty or forty more than his friends claimed for him. If Blaine's friends have come to stay the victory goes with him whenever the opposition attempts to combine upon anybody. We shall see whether the vote of a great majority of the northern republicans is altogether without weight in the convention

The World thinks the vote for Clayton, composed as it was of only two elements, Blaine and Logan, will be easily handled and kept together

The Sun says: Blaine's fight is only well begun. It would be unwise to assume that the terms his opponents made in the alliance for the defeat of Clayton definitely determined the success of any other presidential candidate

The Times is greatly elated by the defeat of Clayton, and says it was due to the energy, courage and sagacity of George William Curtis, Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. The Times renews its motion to substitute Lincoln for Edmunds if the latter's nomination is deemed impracticable, and devotes a column to interviews with prominent men to show Lincoln's popularity

The Star says: If Blaine can poll 387 votes on the first and second ballot for the nominee it will be hard to keep the prize out of his grasp

Philadelphia, June 4—[Special]—The Press sums up all that is certain in the following: Blaine has considerable plurality of the convention and seems to be in a better position to secure a majority than any of his opponents

The Times thinks Clayton's nomination was a blunder of the Blaine men, but it doesn't follow that it is a defeat of Blaine

THE ASPIRANTS AT WASHINGTON

Washington, June 4—[Special]—None of the presidential candidates have been visible to-day. Senator Edmunds left early this morning for Warrenton, Virginia, to purchase a fine saddle horse he has had his eye on for some time. He will not return till Friday. There is much gloom at the White house. Arthur is particularly directing his own fight at Chicago over a private wire which runs into his office, but he is not very sanguine of the outlook

Senator Sherman was at the capitol this morning and was talkative and good natured. He said he was not surprised at the positive refusal of his brother to allow his name to be considered. He had known all along that General Sherman would not permit the use of his name. In reply to a remark that many persons deemed his nomination most probable, Senator Sherman said that if Blaine and Arthur fail to take up anybody else he had reason to think he might be chosen. He said he knew he would get most of the southern vote in the event of a break from Arthur, and that he (Sherman) is strong in the west where Logan is not, and where it is very important to have voting strength in order to carry the election. Sherman did not credit the statement published in some of the papers that there was a row in the Ohio delegation last night, growing out of the unwillingness of Blaine men to support him. He was satisfied he could and would have the hearty support of the Ohio delegation if his name should be presented to the convention

BLAINE AT HOME

Augusta, Me, June 4—James G Blaine reached his home to-day. His friends here telegraphed him early in the day tendering a public reception, which he at once declined. On his arrival at the station he had to pass through a large crowd to his carriage and left promptly for his home. On the journey large numbers of people cheered him, but he declined to make any response, except to raise his hat as he stood on the platform. It was noted with some interest that demonstrations in Massachusetts were especially enthusiastic. At Salem the greeting was very cordial, and at Newburyport there was a perfect ovation. There is no truth in the report that a special telegraph wire has been placed in Blaine's house, nor has he sent a telegram of any kind to Chicago. Being informed by an associated press representative that rumors had been received of interviews with him in some of the afternoon papers of Boston and New York, he said they were totally unauthorized. During his homeward journey he made no expression whatever as to his own prospects or the prospects of any other candidate before the Chicago convention, but on the contrary, pointedly and repeatedly declined to do so. Mr Blaine appears to be in excellent health and the best of spirits

POLITICAL POINTS

Tilden will Positively Decline the Nomination at the Hands of the Democratic Convention.

Washington, June 4—[Special]—An important fact has been disclosed here to-day on the best of authority, that Samuel J Tilden will soon publish a letter declaring that he is not a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, and forbidding the use of his name at the July convention. It is stated that some days since Dorsheimer, congressman from New York, wrote to Charles A Dana, editor of the New York Sun, urging him to call upon Tilden and ascertain positively what he intended to do with regard to the question of nominating him for president. Dorsheimer wrote that the democratic party was actually suffering because of the uncertainty as to Tilden's intentions, that it was all but forced to do nothing at a time when action is necessary, and all because nobody knew whether or not Tilden would run. In the interest of the party Dorsheimer begged Dana to go to Tilden, show him the bad effect of the present uncertainty and urge him to declare himself. Last Friday Dorsheimer went to New York and saw Dana. The latter reported that he had visited Tilden and had submitted to him all the arguments presented in Dorsheimer's letter. After listening patiently Tilden replied he had not wavered an instant in his purpose to forbid the use of his name

A LETTER WRITTEN

He then showed to Dana a letter written by himself, in which in terms most positive, emphatic and unequivocal he not only refuses the use of his name but declares that he would not accept the nomination if tendered him, and that he would not be a candidate under any circumstances. "I wrote this letter," said Tilden to Dana, "two months since, with the intention of making it public then, but they persuaded me to withhold it for a while, and I shall now have it read at the state democratic convention on the 18th of June." In saying "they" Tilden no doubt referred to Bigelow, Manning and several other democratic politicians who hold very close relations with him. He said "they had some purposes to subserve which would have been interfered with by the immediate publication of the letter, and as he personally did not care for a little delay he consented to withhold it until the meeting of the state convention." Dana assured Dorsheimer that he saw and read Tilden's letter, and that there is no question of Tilden's sincerity, that he is not and will not be a candidate under any conditions. This news has completely upset the democrats in congress

FOR THE OLD TICKET

Butte, M T, June 4—The democratic territorial convention met at Deer Lodge to-day and elected Samuel Ward and S T Hauser delegates to the Chicago convention. They are for Tilden and Hendricks. The territorial convention will be held at Deer Lodge September 9

DELEGATES ELECTED

Atlanta, June 4—Nearly every county in the state has elected delegates to-day to the state democratic convention. Three-fourths were instructed for Tilden. The remainder are considered as for him. Not a vote was cast against Tilden

ALABAMA DEMOCRATS

Montgomery, June 4—The democratic state convention nominated state officers, and the district conventions to-night made nominations of delegates to the convention

THE STANDARD ON THE CONVENTION

London, June 4—The Standard says: At no time in the history of America has it been less possible to forecast the result at Chicago. The voting will be simply the triumph of men, not a victory for a measure, whatever the result. There are no great issues at stake and it is difficult to say where the democratic and republican platforms differ. The chief importance of the present convention consists in deciding how far the choice of candidates can be influenced by the Irish faction in favor of stirring up ill blood between England and America

A WATERY GRAVE

Additional Particulars of the Drowning of Gen. Babcock

Jacksonville, Fla, June 4—Gen Babcock and party left Baltimore May 19th on the lighthouse tender Pharaoh, a two masted schooner, bound for Mosquito Inlet, [illegible] miles below the mouth of St Johns river on the Florida coast, where the government is building a lighthouse. The Pharaoh put into Charleston, leaving there on the 28th, having encountered adverse winds all the way. A heavy northeast gale began on the 29th, in the midst of which the Pharaoh made St Johns light and came to anchor off the bar with two cables out. The pilot was signaled, and although the sea was running half mast high, he reached the Pharaoh, and then Babcock sent the following [illegible] to J C Long of this city, proprietor of the steam towing tugs on the river:

St Johns Bar, On Pilot Town, May 30, 1884

J C Long, Jacksonville, Florida—The Pharaoh is in from the north this morning. Please send the Seth Low Monday to tow her over Mosquito Inlet bar.

(Signed) O E BABCOCK,

Lighthouse Engineer

The sea ran so high that the tug could not get out and had not gone down this noon. The next news received was the dispatch from Daytona to the Times-Union announcing the casualty. When the tug comes back from Mosquito Inlet full particulars will be known. The probability is that the Pharaoh anchored off the inlet and the general and his party undertook to go ashore in a small boat, which was swamped in the breakers

THE SAD NEWS CONFIRMED

New York, June 4—A dispatch from Florida confirms the report of the death by drowning of General O E Babcock, Levi P Luckey and an assistant

CHICAGO ROCK ISLAND AND PACIFIC ELECTION

Chicago, June 4—The stockholders of the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific railroad company held their annual meeting for the election of directors at the general office in this city to-day. This election has attracted much attention because of the contest between President Cable and Wm H Vanderbilt. The issue was joined on the re-election of Harry H Porter as member of the board of directors. The whole number of votes cast was 397,113 shares. H H Porter received 331,76[illegible], and John Newell, Vanderbilt's candidate, 62,337, making Porter's majority [illegible]449. Francis H Laws and James R Cowing were re-elected, and Marshal Field was elected in the place of Jay Gould by a unanimous vote. Gould was left off not because of any difference with the management, but for the reason that he could give little or no time to the affairs of the company, while Field's residence in Chicago makes him accessible for consultation. R R Cable was re-elected president, David Dows and A Kimball vice presidents, and F H Laws secretary and treasurer of the company. The executive committee consists of Hugh Riddle chairman, David Dows, R R Cable, H R Bishop and F H Laws. Hon Chauncey M Depew, E H Worcester secretary of the New York Central, John Newell president of the Lake Shore, and Asbury Lord, general solicitor of the Michigan Central, attended the stockholders meeting as representatives of Vanderbilt

She Took Him

Chicago Tribune.

At 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon a couple of excursionists took seats on the east portico of the city hall, directly under the window of the chief of police. He was a bucolic looking chap of 23 with dust an inch deep on his back, and she was an auburn haired angel of 19 wearing a solid shoe and chewing three quids of gum rolled into one. For a long time they sat and looked at the fountains and sighed and were silent. Then he tenderly queried:

"Hanner, isn't it dreamy?"

"Yum," she answered

"I could sit here forever," he whispered

"I don't believe I could—I'd be hungry"

More silence and sighs, and then he took her elbow in his hand and said:

"Hanner, I'm hungry now"

"Didn't you bring a biscuit along?"

"Hungry for your love, Hanner—not for biscuits. Hanner, s'posen we s'posen a case"

"Well"

"S'posen I knew a justice of the peace who would marry us?"

"How much?"

"Two dollars."

"Have you got the money?"

"Hanner, do you doubt my love? I've got 75 cents and I'll hunt up the Harker boys and borrow the rest."

"I'm afraid"

"Now, Hanner"

"Oh, I can't. You know my folks don't like you"

"Hanner, hitch this way till I talk to you. S'posen I got you candy and peanuts, and watermelons? S'posen you realized my great love, and concluded to hitch to me before some other girl captured the prize? We'd gently slip down these steps, turn the corner of this stately edifice, walk to the shop of a justice, and you'd have me and I'd have you"

"Oh, dear, but pa would rave"

"Hold on, Hanner. Your par needn't know it—no one will know it. We'd keep it as silent as the grave, but I'd made your old man respect me for what I am. Gimme half a show and I'll make your par foller me round like a calf within a year, and your ma will fairly love the ground I walk on. Come, Hanner, let's slip"

"Oh, Gawge!"

"Hanner—Hanner! Think of the romance, the love, the mystery, the tenderness, the gold watches, and diamonds, rings and silk dresses."

"Whew!"

"Why, next year when wool comes off. Don't I own forty acres of land? Don't I dote on you? Would I ask you to slip around if I didn't love you above the best hoss in our country? Hanner, let us slip,"

"And you really love—"

Then they slipped

They caught sight of a six-foot farmer coming up the walk with a big cane on one arm and his wife on the other, and the girl slid for Michigan avenue and the lover for Griswold street, the latter whispering to himself, as he dodged through the city hall:

"That's her old dad, and he knocks oxen down with that club."

An Old-Time Drover.

The Lyndon Union says of Lambert Hastings of St Johnsbury, now 77 years old: "In 1822 he went to Boston, worked for $15 a month for five years and brought home $600. He lived on the farm a short time, and in 1835 went to buying cattle for market. It took eleven days to take a drove of cattle and sheep to Boston, and three days to return by stage. At one time Lambert saw that the market was going to rise; he rode home on horseback in three days, and Saturday commenced buying, and by the next Thursday had bought 276 head of cattle and 600 sheep. He made the largest profit on that drove. After the railroad was built Lambert did not miss going to market fifteen weeks in as many years, and would have from fifteen to eighteen car loads a week, and at one time had fifteen car loads of sheep and 300 cattle. His car bills were from $20,000 to $25,000 a year, and one year they amounted to $47,000. His sales would be from $5000 to $7000 a week. He killed at some 6000 sheep a year for four years."

Messrs Fleming Bros

Sirs,—I take this opportunity of informing you of the benefits I have derived from Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills. I have for two years past been afflicted with a severe pain over the eyes, accompanied with a nervousness and sense of dizziness, a malady beyond the power and skill of our physicians to relieve and cure, caused, as far as I myself could judge, by a diseased state of the liver and stomach. Some of the doctors tried bleeding, and various other remedies were tried, but all in vain, for the deep-rooted disease still stuck fast. At last, I procured a box of your valuable Liver Pills from a druggist here, and found, after taking a portion of them, that the disease and painful sensation over the eyes has almost entirely left me. I will close by advising all those afflicted as I have been, to procure this valuable medicine at once and save much time and pain, with little expense. With sincere gratitude and respect, I remain, yours respectfully,

GEO. W. RUSSELL, Toronto.

New York

Mr and Mrs. Williams, No. 425 Seventh street, testify that they have both been suffering with the liver complaint for about five years, during which time they have spent a large amount of money and tried many remedies, but to no purpose. Finally hearing of Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa., they purchased four boxes, which they took according to the directions accompanying each box, and now pronounce themselves perfectly cured of that distressing disease.

THURSDAY MORNING JUNE 5 1884

"ANOTHER DAY"

The Chicago convention is waiting to hear from its committee on credentials and meantime occupying and amusing itself with the discussion of resolutions and the making of speeches. The convention chose its permanent president without a contest, taking for the office Senator John B Henderson of Missouri, a gentleman whose name had not been mentioned for the place until yesterday. He is a good speaker, and in an attitude toward all the candidates to be fair and just, without bias though he is put down as not a Blaine man. The Blaine forces will not lose so long as the chairman is impartial among the others. What will hurt them more than anything else is the delay. When a movement is so well developed and has been carried forward with so much fanfaronade, all the benefits can be realized in no other way than by striking at the first possible moment. Gorgeous processions are always at a disadvantage when they have to halt for loaded wagons to get out of the way.

The early hour for meeting to-day gives time for much work and it will be quite possible to reach a ballot early in the afternoon if too much time is not wasted in going all over again the work of the committee on credentials. In the convention it is not expected that the balloting will begin before to-morrow, which fact gives the impression that both the credentials and the platform will be discussed at length. Perhaps there will be a great tariff debate.

The clamor for speeches which resulted in a mass meeting last night showed the temper of the people assembled. They came for political oratory, and they propose to have it. It may be that they expect to find a dark horse among the informal speakers.

STATESMAN AND POLITICIAN

It is no wonder that the members of the senate cannot attend to their senatorial duties while the convention is going on when we take into consideration the fact that many of them are away at the convention and several others are in the stable with the dark horses. Public business transacted under such circumstances would not be free from criticism. In Washington the excitement is as great as in the hall of the convention and with both houses tied to the Chicago body by special wires, branches of which run into many private houses the nervous strain is too great to admit of the necessary calmness for discussing matters pertaining to appropriation bills. With the full dispatches of the Washington and New York papers to digest there would be no more time left than would be required to read private dispatches, so the democrats would have things too much their own way for the good of the country. The line between the so-called politician and the statesman becomes very dim indeed when such men as Senators Edmunds and Sherman are necessarily absorbed by the affairs of the convention, and Logan and Hawley study the convention prayer sent by telegraph to see if they can find therein any hint as to how it is going with the several aspirants. In fact there is a deal of humbug about this dividing of the politicians from the statesmen. Who can conceive of a higher duty for the statesman than to look well to the nomination of public officers whether they be presidents and vice presidents or members of some state legislature? The country would come to a sad pass if the statesmen should fear the appellation 'politician' and so keep away from caucuses and nominating conventions. All the statesmen in the country could do little toward keeping legislation what it ought to be if every elective officer were to be nominated by a political movement, in which the statesman had no hand. The best of the lawmakers have always been participators in and watchers of conventions as these senators and representatives at Washington are to-day and all that is necessary in order to arrive at a degree of utopian perfection is that the two shall so merge the terms statesman and politician that no man can be admitted among the politicians who is not a statesman and no man admitted among the statesmen who is not at least, enough of a politician to see that caucuses and primaries are not so corruptly conceived and inaugurated as to make great trouble when it shall come first in the higher nominating conventions, second, to the making of laws and third, to the enforcing of them after they are made. It is refreshing to note the character of this convention when we think of these things. The George William Curtises of the party are there as a stand-off to the Powell Claytons, and the excessively exact Henry Cabot Lodges to balance the Texas Flannigans. They are all able men and each represents a sentiment. When Mr Hawkins of Tennessee undertakes to bind them all together with his little five line resolution he finds it not an easy job yet they will all stay together resolution or no resolution for all are necessary to insure success, and each would be ineffective without the other. If the George William Curtises and the Henry Cabot Lodges should on a sudden impulse of disgust rise into the clouds the unregenerated others could not or would not go to them to learn all they may be able to teach a convention and on the other hand should the unregenerate Claytons and Flannigans all stay in Arkansas or Texas or some more depressed section the numbers they represent could never hope to rise to the benefits of this elevating association. The statesman and the politician must be one and the same before the country can be entirely reclaimed and it is in republican conventions like this that the lesson is being most effectively learned.

The death by drowning of Gen E O Babcock and L P Lucky, suddenly removes two prominent figures in the famous Grant administration. In the dispatch announcing the drowning Gen Babcock is spoken of as engineer of the fifth lighthouse district, and perhaps some who read it will not recognize in the name Gen Grant's intimate friend and private secretary. In Washington Babcock was as well known as any public man of his time and there he was very generally liked. He was a most agreeable man to meet, as hundreds will testify who have chatted by his desk in the White house while waiting to step into the president's room. He was a well informed quick-witted aid to the General and though he suffered at the hands of the newspapers in connection with the whisky ring troubles nothing ever reached him to impair his standing among his associates or in the army. When he left the White house he was assigned a duty as engineer in charge of all the works in the District of Columbia and of late he has been on duty at Baltimore. His was a figure in the history of the time of the Grant regime with which the entire country was familiar.

The church temperance society of New York City acts upon the theory that "temperance legitimately understood is the law of the gospel and that total abstinence is a rule of conduct essential in some cases and highly desirable in others but it leaves every man free to decide for himself in the exercise of his Christian liberty what his own habits shall be. It lays down as the basis from which its work shall be done, 'a union and co-operation on equal terms for the promotion of temperance between those who use moderately and those who abstain entirely from intoxicating drinks as a beverage.'"

The New York Truth newspaper after having been crushed to earth and fairly jumped upon and trodden into the ground, as it deserved to be for its infamous work against Garfield, has risen again under T B Connery, late managing editor of the New York Herald, and comes to us looking like a paper that would not run itself into the ground again; but no one can tell. Poor old Oakey Hall, after being pushed out of his place on the World, took a turn at Truth, and soon broke both himself and the paper up very badly so he went over to London to take the place at the bar left vacant by the death of Judah P Benjamin—if he can get it—and left the paper to be bought for a few hundred dollars by Connery. It is said to be an Arthur paper though it seems to be opposed to pretty much everybody and everything. It may be as the boy said his father was—a Baptist though he didn't work at it. The Truth has not fairly settled down to work yet and it is altogether too bewilderingly paragraphical. While brevity is a good thing it never satisfies when it is persisted in at the expense of completeness.

One just cause of feeling against the stalwart camp at Washington is their treatment of the memory of Garfield. The Boston Advertiser's correspondent says: "No sooner was he in his grave than the Dorseys, Hattons, Gorhams, Hastingses and that ilk were let loose to black on his character and defame his memory. Here in Washington through some strange influence in official circles, nothing is too harsh to be said of him. To believe what is said now by these scandal mongers one would think that Garfield was a tainted man in every path of his life. I do not believe that Mr Arthur was ever tempted to say a word against Garfield but it is certain that those who pretend to speak for him and enjoy his favor find nothing too bad to say of Garfield, or independence in politics or any reform in the civil service or better methods and higher aims."

Judge Clisbee of Michigan, elected first secretary of the Chicago convention was the reading clerk of the convention of 1880 and this will be his duty probably as first secretary. He was reading clerk in the national house of representatives when Mr Blaine was speaker and has held the place ever since with the exception of the democratic congresses. Last summer he suffered a stroke of paralysis while going down the capitol steps, and lay in a helpless condition for weeks. It was feared that his wonderful voice would not be heard again in public but it appears that he is on hand as usual. As a reader he has few equals in clearness of utterance, power of voice and endurance.

The Springfield Republican says that the platform of the anti monopoly party is quite a reasonable production. It is not wise in spots but it is not socialistic at all and not disfigured by crankiness. Nearly all the points raised are fairly debatable unless we except the proposition to elect United States senators by popular vote, which would be a pointless change.

It might be difficult to find a rhyme for the word Gresham as a democratic paper has suggested—but then it would be truth instead of poetry that the country would be looking for in case of his nomination, and it would be found synonymous with Gresham if it didn't happen to rhyme with it.

NATIONAL CRIPPLES

Men who have Become Crippled in the Service of the Country

Washington Cor Baltimore American

Nearly every visitor to the house of representatives must have noticed an active energetic fellow who does duty as a doorkeeper and messenger without the use of hands or arms below the elbow. This is B Decker one of the 22 survivors of the list of 45 unfortunates who came out of the war with both arms shot off. He has served on the soldiers roll through democratic and republican congresses alike for sixteen years, and is quite one of the fixtures of the house. His arms were blown off by the premature discharge of a gun at Perryville Kentucky. He says he has never been able to use an artificial hand. He uses an iron or steel instrument of his own device. It looks like a pair of nippers with a hook on one side. This is fastened to the stump and fitted with springs so that cards letters and small papers can be handled by the pincer like nippers while wrapped parcels can be carried by the hook. One day a great while ago Decker asked the surgeon general of the army for his commutation money for an artificial arm and he showed that official how useful his iron hands were by writing a letter in pencil for the surgeon general. After that was done a servant brought in a dish of oysters. Decker tells the rest of the story as follows: "Now" said the general to me "you said you could eat with those hands of yours. I want to see you." I told him I had not come there to get my lunch but that if he had any doubts of my ability in that line I would soon convince him and taking up a fork and spoon I made use of them both to the satisfaction of the surgeon general and of my own stomach as well. The old fellow fell back in his chair and fairly shook his sides with laughter until I had finished. Well he said, that is the best hand I ever saw for practical use. Here is your commutation. You are certainly entitled to it. And he gave me an order for $100 to which I was entitled in place of an artificial arm. Decker says he has a little pain in his arms now and then particularly in wet weather but that he never lost a night's sleep over them from the day they were lost. There is also an employe of the house—a doorkeeper also—who had both legs shot off in the battle of Yorktown in 1862. His name is Fernando Rage. He uses cork legs and canes but he cannot get about to do a great deal so he is stationed at the west gallery door. He says that he did not feel any pain to speak of when he lost his legs but that the stumps had to be amputated three times before they were all right. He has no pain from them now at all. He and Decker have become quite chummy through the similarity of their misfortunes and their present occupation and they are often to be seen together. They say also that they have a friend in Minnesota who lost both legs and both arms in the war. He of course can do nothing for his own support and the government pays him a pension of $100 per month.

THE EVOLUTION OF CONVENTIONS

Inter Ocean

It is doubtful if many of the delegates to the forthcoming conventions know anything of the antecedents of party conventions or can tell when the first was held. This knowledge is in a line with information about which few people care to trouble themselves and it is only when some good natured statistician comes along that we get possession of such interesting facts. From the convention Blue Book we learn that formal conventions were not held until 1831 the caucus having been the arbiter prior to that time. The first caucus was in 1800 when John Adams was nominated. Before that there was a sort of general consent or a mere offering of a candidate and in some cases as in 1820 and 1824 there were no nominations whatever there being in the first case no opposition to the re election of Monroe and in the second case the contest was personal.

The national republican party came into mention in 1828 when John Quincy Adams was offered. The first real convention was anti Masonic held at Baltimore September 26 1831 John C Spencer of New York being chairman. There were ninety-one delegates representing twelve states and after a three day sitting William Wirt was named for president. December 12 of the same year the national republicans held a convention having 130 delegates representing a dozen states. On the second day Henry Clay was unanimously nominated for president and the day following John Sergeant was named vice president thirty more delegates having meantime come into the convention. In 1835 the national republicans merged into whigs, and convened in Pennsylvania with the anti Masons nominating William H Harrison of Ohio. The Massachusetts legislature then named Daniel Webster and that of Ohio John McLean.

The first active contest occurred in the whig convention of Harrisburg December 4 1839. There were six ballots the candidates being General Winfield Scott of New Jersey Henry Clay of Kentucky and General William H. Harrison of Ohio. There were 254 votes, and on the last ballot Harrison got 148 votes. May 5 there was a great convocation at Baltimore to ratify the nominations.

The whigs convened at Baltimore May 1, 1844 and nominated Henry Clay on the first ballot. In 1848 June 7 the Whigs met at Philadelphia with thirty states represented. John Sherman, of Ohio and Schuyler Colfax of Indiana were secretaries of this convention. The candidates were General Taylor of Louisiana Henry Clay of Kentucky John M Clayton, of Delaware Gen Scott, Daniel Webster. Taylor was nominated on the fourth ballot having 171 of the total 279 votes. June 16, 1852 the whig convention was held at Baltimore. This was a spirited and hotly contested affair. Webster Fillmore and Scott were the candidates. Five days were consumed and fifty three ballots taken, Scott being finally nominated. The know nothing party held a convention in Philadelphia February 22 1856 and Parson Brownlow was one of the delegates. There were three days of excitement before a choice was made, when Fillmore getting 179 votes was declared the nominee. In September of that year the whigs meeting at Baltimore, indorsed the Fillmore ticket and adjourned. February 21, 1856 the national republican party was revived in convention at Pittsburg. Horace Greeley was among the delegates. The convention adjourned to meet at Philadelphia June 17 and there on the first ballot gave Fremont 359 votes McLean 196 Banks 1 Seward 1 Sumner 2. Fremont was declared the choice for president.

May 16 1860 in the storm tide, the republicans met at Chicago, with a representation from twenty four states Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina having no delegations. There were three ballots the prominent candidates being Seward and Lincoln. On the third ballot Lincoln got 231 three more than a majority, and was declared the nominee. In the Baltimore convention of June 7 1864 Lincoln was renominated on the first ballot getting all the votes but twenty two which Missouri cast for U S Grant. The republicans again assembled at Chicago May 20 1868 and unanimously, on the first vote named U S Grant. The convention of June 5 1872 was held at Philadelphia when again Grant got the unanimous vote on the first ballot.

Cincinnati had the convention of June 2 1876. There was a pretty lively fight at this time the champions of Blaine making a desperate effort to carry the plumed knight through. But on the seventh ballot Hayes got 384 votes and was declared the nominee. The next convention is memorable for many reasons that need not be mentioned. It was held at Chicago beginning June 2 1880. The total vote was 756 requiring 379 necessary to a choice. The great fight was between the Grant and Blaine delegates. There were thirty six ballots and after the first when he had 304 Grant never fell below 306 though he got up to 312. Blaine began with 284 votes, and ended with 42. On the thirty-fourth ballot Garfield had 50 votes and on the thirty sixth ballot the panic began that ended with a swing to Garfield of the Blaine forces giving him a total of 399 votes. On the first ballot for vice president Chester A Arthur got 468, and was declared the choice of the convention.

A TEMPERATE CONGRESS

How Cold Tea Affects the Brain of the Average Statesman

Washington Correspondent of the S F Bulletin

A few days ago I dropped into the house restaurant for a noonday meal. This restaurant is located in the basement of the house wing. The man who keeps it pays a nominal sum for the privilege and charges fourteen prices for everything he sells. This would cause a great outcry were it not for the fact that the proprietor takes the risk of violating the law every day in selling cold tea. This beverage may be a cocktail gin sling whisky toddy eye opener stone fence or any other alcoholic drink. Being served in a teacup and saucer all these drinks are grouped under the head of cold tea. It is considered that fourteen charges for cold tea will about compensate the proprietor for his constant risk of being sent to the penitentiary.

When I entered the place a demure looking congressman from the southwest was enjoying a cup of cold tea and crackers at one of the rear tables. His name is suppressed for two reasons first because in a conversation with me he said things he never dreamed would be quoted and second because it was no credit to him to be engaged in the wrong of the restaurant man to violate the law.

I asked him if he thought the wall street panic which was then at its height would hurt the republican party in the coming canvass?

My dear fellow, he answered, you ask me a hard question. Generally my opinion on that head is similar to Senator Vest's. I think the republican party resembles the democratic party in one particular. If fire water or brimstone could have killed either of them they would have died years ago.

But do you observe in the events of the last few campaigns (hope for democracy?) All your party friends have recently commenced whistling.

I have been a democrat all my life, he said solemnly, and I shall be until I die. My opinion is that as parties are outlined now the democrats can no more succeed nationally than I can jump over the moon. Some time in the distant future—perhaps long after you and I are dead—they may get in but it won't be as democrats it will be under some other name.

Why do you take such a despondent view of affairs? You are a tariff reformer.

Yes I am not. At large generally I am a reformer. I desire to reform them because that is the only way to get these demolition republicans out of office. (Gracious how tight they hold to the public teat.) I voted for Morrison's bill because it was a party measure.

Just tell me why you take such a gloomy view of matters.

Here waiter! suddenly brightened up my despondent friend and as a white-aproned black man skipped behind his chair he added, another cup of cold tea. Hold on two cups. Eh? Something else then? One tea one lemonade. As the waiter skipped away the congressman asked, Let me see what was your question?

I repeated it. He became solemn again and after reflecting a moment said: Let me tell you a story. It was one of the last nights of the forty fifth congress—nearly eight years ago. We were having hot times up stairs and had been for weeks. I was one of the irreconcilables. Rather than see Hayes nominated I would have broken up the government. There were about fifty of us and seeing we were being gradually sold out during the last days we often came down here and drowned our excitement with cold tea. It was then as now—teacup and fuel all fifteen cents. Well naturally some of us got full and the fuller we got the hotter we made matters up above. Randall was then speaker. He stood the thing for several days but finally one night when twenty or more men were on the floor more or less under the influence of liquor he descended from the chair and sent for the proprietor of this restaurant. He quietly took him into one of the cloakrooms and said: I want you to take the balance of your whisky out of this capitol within the next hour. If you sell another drop down there I shall myself kick you down the back stairs and never let up till I land you in the penitentiary.

I heard Randall say this. He was as calm as a June zephyr but there was no mistaking his meaning. The restaurant man rushed down stairs put his lights out locked up and did not open again until after Hayes was inaugurated. If Randall had not done this I believe Hayes would never have been president. We knew that Grant intended to march soldiers in here and on the ground that we were imperiling the peace of the country arrest us fifty men. We were going to arm fill up with cold tea and die in our tracks. Sobriety brought better sense.

My congressional friend became greatly excited as he recalled these incidents and during his cold tea with so water he took a big gulp. I have always admired Randall for that he continued. There was a crisis then and a courageous man was needed to break down an infernal custom. Ever since that time no one has had the courage to interfere with the cold tea. We have very stringent laws to stop its sale in the capitol and immediately after roll call come down here to take a drink. Now in my mind there is some analogy between the democrats of to-day and the irreconcilables of 1876. We are constantly fighting in foolish causes and keeping full of cold tea to sustain our courage. What we want is a leader—a man who dares tell all violators of the laws that he will land them in the penitentiary if they do not obey him.

JUSTICE HARLAN

Chicago Inter Ocean

John M. Harlan is a Kentuckian. He is one of the very few Henry Clay whigs who went into the republican party, said a gentleman who had served in the United States senate.

Well?

John M. Harlan continues the gentleman not only has a record as a republican but he has a soldier record as well. When Simon Bolivar Buckner Lloyd Tilghman and Senators D Bruce tried to force Kentucky into the confederacy John M Harlan Lovell H Rousseau and Leslie Coombs declared for the union. For constitution and the enforcement of the laws John M Harlan out of his own purse recruited the Tenth Kentucky Union troops as against Henry Clay King's Tenth Kentucky Confederate regiment. John M Harlan led and fought his regiment all through Kentucky Tennessee Georgia and Alabama. He held Cumberland Gap for Burnside held Knoxville against Longstreet and drove John Morgan Forrest and Gatewood's guerrillas out of the dark and bloody ground.

Well?

When David Davis was elected United States senator and when President Hayes was importuned and besieged by delegation after delegation from almost every state in the Union to name Justice Davis' successor President Hayes nominated in 1877 John M Harlan. By a unanimous vote this old Henry Clay whig John M. Harlan this Kentuckian this original Cassius M Clay emancipationist this John Charles Fremont republican was confirmed supreme judge.

Well?

From 1877 to 1884 he has been a supreme justice. Do you know his record? Congress declared that the colored man was entitled to decent and respectable rights. A test case was carried up to the supreme court of the United States. Chief Justice Waite and all of his associates except Justice Harlan decided that the act of congress was unconstitutional—Justice Harlan dissented.

Well?

That decision of Justice Harlan in connection with his former record as an original republican his soldier record his known reputation for honesty makes him to-day the strongest the safest and the best candidate the national republican convention could name.

"You surprise me. Does Justice Harlan want the presidential nomination?"

No. He wants, first President Arthur second Robert T Lincoln but above and beyond all he wants republican success. Did you ever meet Justice Harlan personally?

No.

Then let me say to you that he is one of the most winning loveable men you ever saw. His build is that of a giant his face is that of a child his head is that of a Socrates. In law he is a [illegible] in letters a Plutarch in humanity a John Howard.

At this point your reporter put on the brakes. Well what has all this hifalutin talk you are making got to do with the coming national republican convention?

"Only this that Justice Harlan is the dark horse. There are to-day here in Chicago more true and more character more influence in favor of Justice Harlan and Bob Lincoln than there is for Arthur Logan or Blaine."

"Who?"

"David Davis Wells H Blodgett general solicitor of the great Jay Gould Wabash railway system Judge Blodgett of the federal court Henry S Greene of Springfield Richard H Whiting of Peoria and gentlemen from Wyoming Colorado Nebraska and St Louis."

And you would represent these gentlemen as favoring a ticket to be styled Harlan and Lincoln?

Not by any means. As near as I can gather their views, they are as Mr Justice Harlan's friends for Chester A Arthur first. If a break comes and it seems to the best interests of the republican party to defeat Mr Blaine Mr Arthur's friends will go to Justice Harlan and Mr Lincoln.

Which?

There is no which about it as I understand. Let the ticket be Harlan of Kentucky and Lincoln of Illinois or Lincoln and Harlan and everybody will be satisfied.

But Justice Harlan has not said he would be a candidate.

"No nor has Mr Blaine, nor Mr Arthur nor Mr Lincoln, nor even Fairchild nor John Sherman. The only man who has formally announced himself as a candidate for the presidency is John A Logan."

The reporter was by this time well adrift on the sea of the gentleman's opinion and seeing that the breeze was rising and fearing that it might grow too strong for his canvas he put into harbor and went ashore to cogitate on dry land.

The New Religion

London Standard

Paris has not been deeply affected by the assaults of the salvation army and it remains to be seen whether the approaching mission of the "Theosophists" will at the least of the new religion expect succeed in converting the French capital. Most people are probably unaware that "Theosophy" has its disciples and its monthly journal in our midst. We are so accustomed to the eccentricities of faith and unfaith in this Babylon that one religion more or less attracts little notice. Whether it is that modern Paris like ancient Athens is always looking out for some new thing, or that the chosen apostle for France is an attractive Russian lady with a mysterious history who was in London we have only had the administrator of an American colonel it is clear that the new cult is attracting more attention on the banks of the Seine than on this side of the channel and the Paris papers are already commencing to devote columns of their space. One reporter has interviewed Madame Blavatsky at her rooms in the Rue Notre Dame des Champs and has received from her much information of an extraordinary sort. At the opening of the interview the high priestess was not very communicative, having been offended at some things that have been written of her and she somewhat sharply expressed a hope that the Parisian reporter was going to write the truth and not superficial nonsense. She soon relented however, and consented to give some account of her religion its methods and aims.

Theosophy it appears, is a mixture of spiritualism and Buddhism although in what proportion the peculiarities of the different schools are allowed to enter it is not very clear. The propaganda in Paris is to commence formally at the beginning of next month and will be carried on by Madame Blavatsky herself assisted by Colonel Olcott of the United States, who it appears has worked some 3000 miracles in the last twelve or thirteen months and by a mysterious Hindoo the wisest man in the east and perhaps in all the world who is exhibited in a photograph clothed in white and sitting at Madame Blavatsky's feet. The programme of the cult is a comprehensive one not failing in any degree on the side of modesty. The American colonel the learned Hindoo and the Russian lady intend to establish a universal brotherhood of humanity without distinction of creed race or color to build to a careful study of what are somewhat vaguely defined as "Aryan and other eastern literature religions and sciences the importance of which is to be vindicated and finally to investigate the hidden mysteries of nature and the psychical powers latent in man." All of which may be regarded as the truth, or as "superficial nonsense" just as the reader is inclined.

[illegible] TREAT.—A successful candidate [illegible] crowd of his constituents, [illegible] last evening and invited [illegible] up and take a glass with [illegible] election. He threw a $20 gold [illegible] and as is usual in such cases, [illegible] for and none given. When all [illegible] with their glasses in their [illegible] Germans in the crowd [illegible] toast: "Hoch soller lebe!" [illegible] sentiment except one [illegible] end of the bar, and [illegible] not familiar with the German [illegible] crowd by shouting: [illegible] 'who stole the leaf.'

[illegible] COAST CRAFT.—There are now two [illegible] the coasting trade of the Pacific [illegible] One is the steamship built here [illegible] Pacific Coast Steamship Company [illegible] the much talked of passenger [illegible] here from New York [illegible] Western Texas. If each [illegible] is liable to create [illegible] among shippers and [illegible] of the older vessel [illegible] new arrival should be changed [illegible] the latter, feeling the [illegible] boat, as excelling the first [illegible] old Yaquina should now take [illegible]

[illegible] DROWNED.—News comes [illegible] Columbia river, that Andrew [illegible] employed in the little tug Tom [illegible] and was drowned on Tuesday [illegible] made to roll heavily by [illegible] steamer, the Clara Parker, [illegible] not notice the coming wave, [illegible] over the stern of the boat [illegible] recover himself. The [illegible] to his assistance, but [illegible] without a word and did not rise [illegible] the body had not been recovered [illegible] relatives living in Los An[illegible]

The spring was a [illegible] not been much rain since, [illegible] state of the grass. [illegible] nutritious part of the plant, [illegible] do not fatten so readily.

[illegible]—The coroner of Clackamas [illegible] over the body of John Mar[illegible] in a thicket not far from [illegible] the other day, and the jury [illegible] verdict of suicide. From the [illegible] facts were learned: [illegible] years old. Six or seven years [illegible] Oregon Transfer Company [illegible] California, returning two or [illegible] wife and four children [illegible] any means of support.

[illegible]—The entertainment [illegible] auspices of St. Ann's [illegible] of the poor, was through[illegible] received the patronage it [illegible] by a large and appreciative [illegible] consisted of several [illegible] a laughable play entitled [illegible] which were all rendered [illegible] to the efforts of Messrs. [illegible] EXAMINATION.—The annual public [illegible] held at the Bishop Scott Gram[illegible] until one on Thursday, Friday [illegible] closing exercises will take place [illegible] at which time Dr. Nevius will [illegible] Dr. H. N. [illegible], the head master, [illegible] annual report. All the friends [illegible] the public generally are cordially [illegible] all of the exercises.

[illegible] MAJOR GREENE.—In his official [illegible] Major Greene of duty in this department [illegible] "This department commanding [illegible] opportunity to acknowledge the [illegible] manifested by Major Greene [illegible] of important public business [illegible] of duty which his personal and [illegible] to gain."

[illegible]—The wharf at the rear of Jan[illegible] gave way the other day [illegible] a pile of barrels of molasses. [illegible] tumbled in the river. The [illegible] to pieces, and the pize and [illegible] have been making molasses [illegible] If any one notices any unusual [illegible] water he will know to what [illegible]

[illegible] OVERHEAD.—The matter of [illegible] Electric Light Company the right [illegible] stretch wires provoked considerable [illegible] in the council last evening. The [illegible] so many wires over the streets [illegible] in strong terms, and several ex[illegible] in favor of obliging all wires to [illegible]

[illegible]—Weather reports from east[illegible] that in the twenty-four hours end[illegible] yesterday morning the Snake river [illegible] at Riparia. The Columbia rose [illegible] and nine inches at Bonne[illegible] from two inches, and is 18 feet [illegible] water mark.

[illegible]—It was a poor day [illegible] river yesterday. The sailboat [illegible] experienced much delay in getting [illegible] by rowboats, going by the [illegible] others remained floating idly [illegible] on a wanted river. Persons [illegible] days should take a bellows [illegible]

FROM PORTLAND TO ASTORIA.—Travel between Astoria and this city has increased considerably since the Wide West has been put on as an extra boat. This old favorite is keeping up her reputation for fast time. She left here on Tuesday at 6 A. M., made nine landings and reached Astoria at 2:40. She left Astoria at 6 yesterday morning, made eleven landings and arrived here at 1:55 P. M. Mr. Frank T. Dodge, superintendent of the river division, has offered to take the Astoria mail down on the Wide West and Capt. B. B. Tuttle has announced that he will accept the offer. This will enable Astorians to get their mail several hours earlier on the days the West makes her trips, a favor they will doubtless appreciate. The West also makes an extra trip down on Saturday nights. The river service between Portland and Astoria is as good as any in the United States, and the prices are as low. No one can grumble at water transportation which carries him 110 miles in six hours as on the Wide West at an expense of only $1.

GIVING BEN NORDEN A PLACE.—When the resolution appointing judges and clerks for the city election on the 10th inst. came up in the council last night, Gerdes made a desperate, and finally successful effort to get his friend Ben Norden on the list for the First ward. He first moved to have Norden put in the place of George H. Durham as judge, but failed. Adams said it looked as if Gerdes was for giving the democrats all of it. Gerdes replied, "Well, you must recollect that it is a democratic ward." After some bantering about the vote there on Monday, the motion was put and lost by a tie vote. Then Gerdes moved to put Norden in the place of McCraken as clerk, and as a compromise George L. Curry was withdrawn and Norden put in his place, and "Richard was himself again."

BLACKBERRIES FOR EVERYBODY.—There is no finer fruit that grows than wild blackberries, and nowhere are they found in greater profusion than in Willamette valley. It has been several years, however, since they yielded a full crop, and not many have been put up for family use. This year, however, there is every indication that the crop will be an immense one. An enterprising firm of this city, engaged in the canning business, propose to go to some point in the valley where the berries are the thickest and with their apparatus can the fruit immediately after it is picked. By this means a finer quality of fruit is secured at less expense than by transporting it to Portland.

DOBYAN BOUND OVER.—Sam Dobyan, formerly of Tacoma, who was acquitted on a charge of vagrancy not long since, and immediately arrested upon a complaint made by Walter Keyes, charging him with stealing four watches from Keyes in June last, was yesterday held to answer before the grand jury by Judge Moreland in the sum of $200 bail. This, it is stated, he will be ready to furnish within a few days. Dobyan's father, a respectable looking old man, is now in the city, and expresses considerable grief at the doings of his unworthy son.

MARGUERITE SOCIABLE.—To-morrow evening the young ladies and misses of the Unitarian Sunday school will give a Marguerite social in the chapel corner Seventh and Yamhill. As an afterpiece the Sans Souci club will produce a drama "Down by the Sea." Some way or other these Unitarians—the ladies, not the men—have a pleasant way of entertaining their friends and when they announce an evening's amusement it is always sure to have novelty—an indispensable feature—and visitors are certain to get their money's worth.

PROPOSED PRIZE FIGHT.—Arrangements have been consummated for a prize fight between Pete Lawler and Charles Davis, for $500 a side, to take place at some sweet sequestered spot at an unknown distance from this city, in about three weeks. Lawler went into training at the White house yesterday under Jim Bates, and Davis will get up his muscle on Ross island under an efficient tutor of the "manly art."

ILLEGAL VOTING CASES.—John Taylor, arrested for illegal voting, had an examination yesterday. He stated that he had only been away from this place temporarily, and always intended to return. He was discharged. John Gilannie, arrested on a similar charge, waived examination, and will plead guilty to-day. His ignorance is his only excuse.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE.—When a man wakes up about six o'clock in the morning and sees a cow dancing gaily over the mignonette and putting the pansy blossoms rapidly "under the daisies," he begins to wish with all his heart that the foot and mouth disease had visited Oregon in all its greatest virulence.

THE FIREWORKS.—The committee will be around to complete the collection for the display of fireworks. There is about half the collection in, and Mr. Hughes is desirous of getting the balance as early as possible to insure success.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron yesterday to arrive here to-day: F. S. Hoyt, A. D. Kirkpatrick, L. M. Don, Mrs. M. D. Pease, Mrs. C. Atwater.

BRIEF MENTION.

The steamer Bonita has arrived at her dock in this city.

Tunnel No. 2, on the Oregon Pacific railroad, is completed and ready for the tracklayers.

The Western Union telegraph office will post bulletins to-day from the Chicago convention.

Tom Smith arrested for bestiality was yesterday sent to jail by Judge Moreland for fifteen days.

Louis Eppinger's restaurant and saloon were closed yesterday by Sheriff Jackson on an attachment in favor of A. A. McKinnie for the sum of $2060.

The steamer Cleveland, formerly of this city, finds plenty of business at her new locality, Yaquina bay. Excursion parties form no small source of her income.

The schooner D. S. Williams, now taking on square timbers at Seattle for Yaquina bay for the Oregon Pacific railroad, is from Port Blakely and will carry about 250,000 feet.

The managers hope that all will bear in mind the strawberry festival at the Congregational church on Friday evening, and make a special effort to insure substantial aid to a worthy object.

The fleet of shipping in port is beginning to diminish. The Ekdale has gone, and the Itata and Cotesworth go down the river this morning. The Villard will go down Friday morning, drawing 22 feet 6 inches.

Otto Brandes, an employe of Allen, Baum & Co., was recently the victim of an accident resulting in a broken leg, and had just about recovered from its effects when he had both feet badly scalded by the bursting of a hot water tank in the candy factory on E street.

County Judge Stearns yesterday appointed Philo Holbrook, Wm. Braden and C. M. Wiberg to act as viewers upon the proposed new county road from a point in the line between Multnomah and Clackamas counties to the road leading from Powell's valley to Pleasant valley.

Wm. Hinkle, arrested a few days ago charged with seduction, has been discharged from custody by Justice Davis, no one appearing to prosecute the case. It is stated that the complaint was sworn to by a relative of the girl, and that the latter pronounced it false.

The little steamer Wildwood, plying between Portland and Rainier had an accident to her machinery on Tuesday, and was towed back to this city by the Clatsop Chief. The repairs needed are but slight, however, and the Wildwood will be ready for business again in a few days.

J. McCam was arraigned in police court yesterday on two charges of assault and battery on a Chinese named Ho King. The latter appeared in the court room hobbling on a crutch, and very badly bruised about the head. McCam concluded to plead guilty and was fined $20 for each assault.

Two strawberry festivals were held last evening, one at the Calvary Presbyterian church and one at the Taylor street M. E. church. At the former Miss Luce gave entertaining readings and at the latter various tableaux and other interesting features were presented. There was a goodly attendance at both places and an enjoyable time had by those present.

The fire Tuesday night was in the third story of J. Crumbie's lodging house, 69½ E street, the building being owned by C. Cardinell. The flames were first seen in a room occupied by Crumbie's daughters, who were absent at the theater at the time, and the origin is unknown. Although the fire was quickly extinguished, considerable damage was done to furniture by water.

CITY ELECTION.

The common council last evening ordered that notice be given of an election to be held in this city on Monday, the 10th instant, to elect a city treasurer for a term of three years, and one councilman each from the First, Second and Third wards for terms of three years.

The following judges and clerks of election were appointed:

First ward—Judges, F. Opitz, Geo. H. Flanders and Geo. H. Durham; clerks, John F. McCraken and Ben Norden.

Second ward—Judges, P. W. Gillette, Wm. Burrell and Thos. Stephens; clerks, R. J. Scott and J. D. Wilcox.

Third ward—Judges, J. C. Moreland, L. M. Parrish and Peter Taylor; clerks, W. H. Kinross and W. J. Kelly.

The polling places will be as follows:

First ward—Southeast corner of Fourth and A streets.

Second ward—Corporation shed on Fourth street, between Morrison and Yamhill.

Third ward—Old Tiger engine house.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

FOREST GROVE, June 4.

Tuesday evening was occupied with rhetorical exercises, under the direction of Prof. W. D. Lyman. The following was the order of exercises: Essay, by John Beck: "In Meteoric Dust," selection from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice," by E. M. Shipley, Lois Burlingame, A. Sweek, J. Wheelock Marsh, A. Graham, J. C. Clark, Minnie Jackson and G. H. Marsh; recitation, "How Jane Conquest Rang the Bell," by Miss Hattie Sampson; declamation, by Mr. J. C. Clark, a selection from "Artemus Ward;" selection, "Toke's Monument," by Miss Maggie Mooram; recitation, "Shamus O'Brien," by Miss Lois Burlingame; essay, "How the Old Masters brought me to Judgment," by Miss Laura Marsh; and recitation, "The Pilot's Story," by Miss Cora Wells.

Those who took part did well and honored their instructor, and the young ladies especially spoke with extraordinary distinctness. The exercises were well interspersed with music, duet, quartet and full choir. As I close this the regular commencement exercises are being carried on, having begun Wednesday at 11 o'clock.

AMUSEMENTS.

"POP"—Rice's Surprise Party have "caught on" with "Pop," and notwithstanding the election excitement, have drawn full houses. Owing to some hitch, the audience at yesterday's matinee, which numbered 300, were dismissed and money refunded. Things were straightened out by evening and every seat in the house was filled. The piece will run the remainder of the week.

THE TIVOLI.—After a continued run of patronage the managers of Tivoli theater have withdrawn "Pinafore" to make place for Offenbach's opera bouffe in four tableaux of "La Perichole." This is the first time that "La Perichole" has ever been produced in Portland, and with the new costumes and new scenery that has been prepared, it can not fail to be the hit of the season.

The sale of unclaimed baggage by the O. R. & N. Co. will take place at the salesroom of Gilman & Co., No. 42 First st., next Saturday, June 7, at 10 A. M.

The Albo lamp—superior to gas.

THE RESULT.

Hermann's Majority for Congress well up to Two Thousand.

ALMOST A BALANCE FOR SUPREME JUDGESHIP.

The Official Vote Necessary to Decide Between Thayer and Flinn—Gearin's Majority 100 to 150.

Returns from a few small precincts in this county are still lacking, but these will not affect the general result. Hermann has a little over 2000 majority; Flinn a little less than 1000; Simon has 750 over Shattuck and 1250 over Hughes; Carson has 70 more than Simon; the lowest man on the republican legislative ticket has 300 over the highest fusionist, and the highest republican has 1600 over the lowest fusionist. Jordan has nearly 2200; Sanders 1300, and the rest of the county republican ticket from 1600 up. Gearin's majority over Tanner is not less than 100 and may be 170 or 180.

THE STATE VOTE.

Following is a table of majorities by counties, known and estimated. From these figures, which are the best obtainable at this time, it will be seen that the vote between Flinn and Thayer is very close and it will no doubt take the official vote to decide:

The Multnomah County Vote.

Following are the totals of the vote on the candidates in this county except Willamette slough, Sauvies island, Columbia, Willamette, and Powell's valley precincts. In these precincts there were cast 183 votes in 1882, of which Moody, for governor, received 104, and Smith 79; so that these will not change the result, though majorities may be slightly increased or decreased:

Hermann 5355, Myers 3357.
Flinn, 4909, Thayer 3871.
Tanner 4136, Gearin 4427.
Constitutional amendment—Yes 1802, no 4671.
Simon 4702, Carson 4563; Shattuck 4031, Hughes 3346.

Sanders 4903, Marshall 3363.
Showers 5145, Beck 3195.
Corbett 5585, Newell 4900, Roberts 4019.
Harold 5180, Lownsdale 3344, Paxton 5071, Rosenberg 3603, Mayre 1842, McQuinn 3609, Cooke 4404, Davis 2910.

In the above summary Gearin has 231 majority. It is reported that Tanner has the following majorities to be placed against this 231: In Powell valley 11; Willamette slough 33, Columbia 19, Willamette 31. Assuming these to be correct, Gearin will have 134 majority.

Couch—Hermann 683, Myers 512, Flinn 602, Thayer 592, Smith 688, Tanner 511, Gearin 654, Simon 694, Carson 655, Shattuck 573, Hughes 413, Bourne 633, Kenworthy 666, Story 662, Barnes 604, Davenport 627, Mayo 668, Therkelsen 650, Cole 446, Weeks 452, Thayer 190, Beach 475, Montag 402, Haas 531, Rawle 498, Jordan 320, Jeffrey 506, Sanders 685, Marshall 433, Showers 696, Beck 401, Corbett 1139, Newell 601, Roberts 461, Harold 698, Lownsdale 453, Paxton 681, Rosenberg 469, Mayre 604, McQuinn 487, Cooke 629, Davis 501. For the amendment 281, against 26.

Western—Hermann 851, Myers 444, Flinn 75[illegible], Thayer 542, Smith 432, Tanner 723, Gearin 45[illegible], Simon 756, Carson 765, Shattuck 639, Hughes 455, Bourne 780, Kenworthy 800, Story 822, Barnes 795, Davenport 716, Mayo 782, Therkelsen 748, Cole 4[illegible], Weeks 492, Thayer 487, Beach 550, Montag 481, Haas 494, Rawle 477, Jordan 811, Jeffery 470, Sanders 75[illegible], Marshall 523, Showers 822, Beck 455, Corbett 1[illegible], Newell 803, Roberts 480, Harold 790, Lownsdale 48[illegible], Paxton 763, Rosenberg 5[illegible], Marye 777, McQuinn 50[illegible], Cooke 326, Davis 442. For the amendment 395, against 375.

THE STATE.

COOS AND CURRY.

EMPIRE CITY, June 4.—Republicans carry this and Curry county on state, county and legislative ticket, beyond doubt.

JOSEPHINE COUNTY.

GRANT'S PASS, June 4.—H. B. Miller, republican for senator in Josephine has 19 majority; Thornton defeated by over 100. Myers' majority, 50.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. C. N. Gowen of Victoria is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. V. Cooper.

Mrs. B. B. Tuttle left on the steamer Columbia for a visit to her home in California.

Lieut. W. R. Abercrombie has been appointed aid de camp to Gen. Miles, succeeding Lieut. Long.

E. M. Lyon, an old resident of Portland, has purchased a handsome residence on Van Ness avenue, San Francisco, which he will occupy during the winter. He expects to spend a portion of every spring and summer in this city with his family. Mr. Lyon is now in the city looking after the rebuilding of the store recently damaged by fire.

ON DECK.—Farbey means to stay and do the ladies service by keeping their sewing machines in repair. In future you will find him at 85 Morrison st., near Fourth.

THE DREDGER INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

Sharp Debate between Honeyman and Gerdes in the Council Last Night.

At the conclusion of reading reports in the council last evening, Mr. Chittenden called for a report from Messrs. Andrus, Gerdes and Sears, the special committee appointed a long time ago to investigate the dredger business. The committee after many delays had promised to report at this meeting, and he wanted to see the report.

Gerdes said that there was a little difference of opinion between a majority and a minority of the committee as to the form of the report, and he thought that it could be satisfactorily arranged between them by the next council meeting.

Andrus asked as a special favor that the matter be allowed to lay over till next meeting of the council.

Chittenden said this would be satisfactory to him, and asked Honeyman what he thought about it.

Honeyman said it was not satisfactory to him. The committee had been humbugging along since before Christmas, when they had laid the matter over till after the holidays. He thought they must have meant the Fourth of July holidays. If they had two reports let them bring them in. It was only humbugging to put it off from meeting to meeting. If they had anything to report, let them come up like men and report it.

Gerdes said he was always ready and willing to face the music; there was no cowardice in him.

Honeyman—There is a good deal of humbugging though.

Some sharp shooting followed, showing considerable feeling. Gerdes stated that the report signed by him reflected on Honeyman, Holman and Hewitt.

This drew out Honeyman, and he and Gerdes had it hip and thigh for a few minutes.

Sears remarked that he thought the discussion was getting somewhat acrimonious and irrelevant. He said he had prepared a report which he believed to be fair, and he was not likely to change it. He intimated that the report of Andrus and Gerdes was after the nature of a Scotch verdict; that is, it did not acquit, but stated that there had been a failure to prove anything wrong, thereby leaving it to be inferred that they believed there was something wrong. He believed in the American style of finding the accused guilty or not guilty.

Adams said it seemed that the reports were the same in findings, but differed as to their conclusions. He moved that the matter go over till the next meeting, which motion carried.

EAST PORTLAND COUNCIL.

Fifth Street Bridge Ordered Repaired—Fire Limits Extended—Polls and Judges for City Election—Etc.

The regular meeting of the East Portland council occurred Tuesday evening, Mayor Sanders presiding and all members present.

Following is an epitome of the proceedings:

PETITIONS.

From W. T. Hoffman, asking that Thomas Ryan and H. L. Wright be appointed special policemen at the Willamette park without pay from the city; granted.

From S. M. Keenan, representing that a warrant on the improvement fund of Ninth street had been accidentally destroyed, and asking that a duplicate of the same be issued to him; granted.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

From the committee on streets, certifying to work done on L street by James Frainey; adopted, and warrant ordered drawn for amount of claim.

From the same recommending that the petition for a sewer on Fourth street be granted; adopted.

From the same, reporting that they were in doubt as to the remonstrance against the proposed improvement of F street representing a majority of the property owners, and recommending, at the request of property owners, that the same be readvertised, with the clause relating to a plank roadway omitted; adopted (Kindorf voting no), and recorder directed to give the required notice.

From the same, recommending that the North Pacific Lumber and Manufacturing Company be authorized to change and repair the Fifth street bridge as recommended by the experts appointed to examine the same, believing the same would fill the requirements of the contract. The report of the experts has already been approved.

Smith moved the adoption of the report and Mayo seconded.

In reply to Kindorf, Mayo stated the bridge must be either properly repaired or removed, and that he had received good legal advice to the effect that if the bridge was repaired as proposed, claims against adjacent property for the same would hold good in any court of equity.

Kindorf believed that, if the matter was contested, litigation would cost the city as much as the bridge was worth, and if there was any doubt about the matter, as there certainly was, the bridge should be condemned. He therefore amended to condemn the bridge and have it removed. He received no second.

The original motion was then carried, Kindorf voting NO.

From Cyrus Buckman, J. M. Sliker and E. Heintz, the viewers appointed on the proposed opening and extension of I street from Twelfth to Sixteenth, reported that the same would be a public benefit and an advantage to the adjacent property and recommending that the same be opened without compensation to adjacent property owners, except $100 to Job C. Smith, owner of a strip of land 30x260 feet, abutting on block 281. Report adopted, and recorder directed to tender amount proposed to Job Smith.

Thos. Deats	31 00

A claim of $286 81 from Mrs. B. Hawthorne, for planking a portion of L street, was referred to the committee on streets.

ORDINANCE.

Amending the ordinance providing for the prevention of fires, so as to include within the fire limits the south half of the east half of the block bounded by H, I, Fourth and Fifth streets. Read three times and passed.

THE CITY ELECTION.

By resolution, polling places were designated and judges appointed for the approaching city election Monday, June 10th, as follows:

First ward—Johnson's grocery store, corner of Fourth and G streets; judges, Isaiah Buckman, J. H. McMillen and L. Nicolai.

Second ward—Engine house of Pioneer Engine Company, corner Third and I streets; judges, H. Gason, N. K. West and G. R. Matthews.

Third ward—Hall of Hook and Ladder Company, corner of Tenth and Adams streets; judges, E. Heintz, L. B. Phillips and B. C. Myers.

RESOLUTIONS, ETC.

By Crane, that the recorder be directed to issue warrants for the collection of all outstanding assessments for the improvement of Fourth street; carried.

By Laing, that the marshal be directed to notify the railroad company to secure the wells recently used by them for blasting purposes against accident, the same being now left open without any protection; carried.

In reply to Sprague the mayor stated that, under the report adopted, the Pacific Lumber and Manufacturing Company were empowered to proceed with the repair of the Fifth street bridge, and if repaired in accordance with the directions and specifications of the experts, it would be the duty of the council to accept it. Adjourned.

THE EAST SIDE.

CAMP MEETING.

The Seventh-day Adventists have changed the location for their camp meeting from Sellwood to East Portland. Very desirable grounds for the purpose have been secured on Third street, near the tower depot, overlooking the river; and being located between the Stark street and railroad ferries, either route may be taken by visitors from the west side. Preparations will commence immediately. A large number is expected to attend, and about fifty tents will be erected for their accommodation. Among the speakers announced is Mrs. E. G. White, author of "The Life of Christ." This lady has been a public speaker for over forty years. Elder J. W. Waggoner, editor of the Signs of the Times, will be present; also, Elders J. N. Loughborough, recently from England, J. O. Corliss of Michigan, G. W. Colcord of Washington territory, W. C. White of California, Charles L. Boyd, president of the North Pacific conference, and others. The meeting will commence Thursday, June 19, and continue until the 30th inst. A cordial invitation is extended to friends and the public generally to attend.

EPISCOPAL CONVOCATION.

The opening service of the Episcopal convocation, which convenes at St. David's church, East Portland, will take place this evening, when Bishop Morris will deliver his annual address.

GORED BY A COW.

Dr. Rafferty was hastily summoned to Mount Tabor last evening to attend a man who had been seriously gored by a cow. The doctor had not returned up to a late hour and no particulars could be learned.

NOTES.

The work of bolstering up the Fifth street bridge will be commenced at once.

The military ball of the East Portland City Guard occurs at Willamette park to-morrow evening. No pains will be spared to render the affair enjoyable to all who may attend.

The meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee, appointed for last evening, proved a failure, owing to several of its members being absent through a bad attack of politics.

I. N. Sanders, county clerk elect, will probably resign the mayoralty of East Portland.

STATE CONVENTION OF THE W. C. T. U.

ALBANY, Or., June 4.

Preparatory to the annual meeting of the Oregon Woman's Christian Temperance Union at Albany, in this state, a number of the lady delegates reported on Tuesday morning, and were cordially received at the beautiful residence of Mr. Blain, one of the prominent merchants of that city. From this point they are assigned to pleasant homes which had been arranged to welcome them. Mrs. H. K. Hines, Mrs. Biggs, Mrs. Chaplain Stubbs and daughter and husband and Mrs. Leavitt were among the early arrivals. The latter lady came from Corvallis, where she had lectured on the previous day.

The lately completed and commodious Baptist church was crowded to its utmost capacity at 8 P. M., to accommodate the meeting held there by the Linn county W. C. T. union. The meeting was presided over by the president of the Albany union. Following the usual opening services, Mrs. Leavitt was introduced and delivered a very interesting address, forcibly illustrating the fallacy of high license as a remedy for the evils of the liquor traffic. On Wednesday at 9 A. M. the church was again well filled by those earnest, intelligent and devout workers in the temperance cause. Mrs. Chaplain Stubbs, the state president of the evangelistic work, conducted the meeting. She read that interesting incident in Peter's history wherein this apostle entered upon his broader career as a minister to the Gentiles. Her subject was the place and efficacy of prayer in the work of human reform and evangelization.

The large attendance at these meetings was in striking contrast with the paucity of attendance in cities of much larger population. It may be safely affirmed that Linn county possesses a goodly band of determined and efficient workers in the cause of temperance.

At the close of the time devoted to this part of the service, Rev. Mrs. H. K. Hines, the president of the Oregon W. C. T. Union, took the chair, and the regular routine business of the convention was entered upon with marked interest. The credentials of the delegates were presented and referred to the appropriate committee, and pending their report Mrs. Leavitt offered some excellent remarks on efficiency in the methods and spirit of the unions, which were well received.

FOR GOODNESS SAKE DON'T SAY I TOLD YOU!

I want to whisper some words in your ear,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you,
Where to get nice, fine clothing that's not very dear,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you—
Why go to Kohn & Steinbach's, the best house in town!
They have the nobbiest styles and their prices way down,
To 151 First street, just there call around
But for goodness sake don't say I told you!

This week their attractions are all very fine,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you;
They are all from New York, and here in good time,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you;
Summer Underwear and Neckwear, the latest in style;
If you saw, to buy you'd walk many a mile,
And the girls would look at you and give you a smile;
But for goodness sake don't say I told you.

Kohn's Hats are the nobbiest you ever did see,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you;
A big lot just opened, if you saw you'd be pleased,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you;
They have the latest and handsomest goods in the town,
That's why other clothiers wear such a frown;
Be sure and buy there as their prices are down,
But for goodness sake don't say I told you.

MRS. TOM THUMB.

Rumor that the Forty-inch Widow is Contemplating Another Marriage.

New York Correspondence Albany Journal.

Speaking of widows, I came across Mrs Tom Thumb the other day in the elevated railroad car She had to make considerable of a jump to seat herself and I observed that her companion made no offer of assistance. This was in accord with the lady's well understood desire. You may have happened to find out that old men don't like to be helped on with their overcoats, because it implies a decrepitude which they dislike to acknowledge, even to themselves. Well, Mrs. Thumb has that sort of feeling with reference to any real or implied notice of her size She sat there in great dignity, but with her feet dangling far above the floor "She ought to carry an adjustable footstool," I remarked, "or else have something in the way of an automatic lengthening apparatus, like those fishing rods that slide out of themselves attached to her heels." My companion was short and feminine. Said she "Bless your heart, that little creature isn't practically any worse off than a good many of us Woman's rights are cruelly disregarded by railroad managers, if you'll take the trouble to notice They give us shorties a choice between practically standing up and not much more than leaning against a seat, or squarely seating ourselves and letting our feet dangle unsupported. Look at that row of women across the car! The only one who at once rests her back fully against the support intended for it and her feet flat on the floor is nigh as tall as you are. All the rest are a dozen sizes too small for the seats. If sitting away back properly, they only touch their toes to the floor—like a line of ballet girls tiptoeing on the stage. Why shouldn't a happy medium in the hight of public seats be struck? Why shouldn't men be made to sit on a level below their knees, instead of putting the whole inconvenience of adjustment on our less lengthened sex? Really, I think of writing to Susan B Anthony about it."

The little Widow Thumb is casually a resident of New York, and a welcome visitor in a considerable number of rather wealthy and fashionable families. She is now a lady so mature and dignified, notwithstanding her diminutive size, that nobody in the way of social intercourse dares, or is much inclined, to treat her as a human trifle. To see her in the midst of a round of calls is to get the impression, at first sight, that your eyes have some how become telescopic inversely, so exactly is she a miniature of the conventional dames of ceremonious society. She dresses for an afternoon of formal visiting in a toilet of semi-mourning, suitable in style for a quiet woman of forty-five—which age she acknowledges—and orders from a livery stable one of those coupes that, as to liveried driver and general appearance, are scarcely distinguishable from private equipages. Provided with a visiting list, and easily commanding an air of well bred balance, she lacks only in stature to be the ideal of a middle aged millionaire's wife. Of course, she attracts staring attention whenever she alights; but her manner of silent reproof is usually effective as a cure for impudence, and she is able to go about with far less annoyance than might be supposed She is now about three feet and a half in hight, or a foot more than when she was first put on exhibition by Barnum, and it was only within a few years that she stopped growing. "It would not surprise me," she lately said, "if I should take to growing again at any time. My case is one of retarded development, you know, and I may yet catch up with the rest of you " The majority of the dwarfs exhibited are really children, phenomenally small but by no means the adult midgets that they are represented to be, and consequently they grow out of the profession. That has been the case with many a 'freak' as the showmen call them "

The pertinence of the fair, fat and forty-inch widow as a topic here is the fact that she has a suitor for her hand. The account current in her circle of acquaintances says that Mr John Spencer Coyne, a mine operator, who came eastward a year ago with a comfortable fortune, began to seriously woo her soon after making her acquaintance in this city He is a handsome man of no more than 40, with cultured taste, good morals, and about a hundred pounds, his stature being limited to an inch or so more than five feet. That he is deeply in love with Mrs. Thumb is not doubted by any of her mutual friends, but he does not seem to have made much progress toward capturing the estimable dwarf. It is said to be her firm intention not to marry again.

A Bit of Political Gossip

The following bit of political gossip printed in the Washington Star attracted considerable attention There is a secret history connected with the meeting of business men in New York which indorsed President Arthur for renomination. The original plan had an entirely different object in view. The idea of holding a business meeting, it is said, was first conceived by Mr. Conkling, and the man to be indorsed was U. S. Grant, This was the plan and understanding so often and mysteriously referred to by Mr Belford of Colorado, who is accredited with being in the confidence of Mr Conkling The design was to conceal the real object of the meeting until the last moment and then all of a sudden, as if by an enthusiastic impulse, go over to Grant with a rush This result was looked for by Grant's friends and they were completely bewildered when they lost control of the scheme and the meeting was called and Arthur indorsed. The failure of Grant & Ward is given as the cause of the failure of the plan, as Grant's presidential chances were buried in the ruins of the bank. The Grant men are now at sea without compass and badly scattered, Belford wrote to Conkling day before yesterday asking for an explanation of the situation and for some instructions as to what is to be done, but has not yet received a reply. The statement that both Conkling and Grant have gone over to Blaine puzzles and bewilders those who were on the inside of the scheme, and they are waiting to hear from Conkling directly when they will probably follow his lead, They say in a confidential whisper, that they do not believe that Conkling has gone for Blaine unless the plans have been entirely changed. They say that the move will be in rather another direction, and that the man who will receive the support of the Grant and Conkling element, and who will get the nomination at Chicago, is Justice Miller of the United States supreme court.

A Woman's Pair of New Shoes.

Chicago Tribune

When a woman has a new pair of shoes sent home she performs altogether different from a man. She never shoves her toes into them and yanks and bangs until she is red in the face and all out of breath, and then goes stamping and kicking around, but pulls them on part way carefully, twitches them off again to take a last look and see if she has got the right one, pulls them on again, looks at them dreamily, says they are just right then takes another look, stops suddenly to smooth out the wrinkles, twists around and surveys them sideways, exclaims, "Mercy, how large they are," looks at them again square in front, works her feet around so they won't hurt her quite so much takes them off looks at the heels, the toe, the bottom, and then inside, puts them on again, walks up and down the room once or twice remarks to her better half that she won't have them at any price, tilts down the mirror so she can see how they look,

WHEAT—Telegraphed markets are in worse feeling to-day, San Francisco futures closing lower On the other side all markets are in quiet tone, yet prices are steady Locally there is absolutely nothing to report

FLOUR—The movement is small other than for foreign export and this is fast drawing to a close

OATS—A rather better inquiry has ruled, but holders are firm for full prices Yet stocks are free and only the firmness of holders gives tone to values

EGGS—Lessened receipts prom se to help values, which are yet weak at 20c

WOOL—Local market inactive New York mail dates say the market has presented a quiet appearance with the general condition about the same A continued slow movement of manufactured goods is considered the chief drawback to a revival of trade, and until this branch improves dealers look for continued inactivity in raw material New clip wools are arriving in moderate quantities, but, as compared with the average of previous years the season is from four to six weeks late, and this backwardness has ended to delay whatever improvement might follow a liberal display of new wools from which buyers could make selections. Texas advices indicate no important change in the situation there buyers still moving with caution and holders unwilling to make concessions

Boot Blacking with a Banana.

Canton Letter

Did you ever hear of blacking boots without blacking? It is done here. I went on Board the Am. steam war-ship Essex the other evening and saw the operation. A banana skin is used, and with good effect I thought at first that the rind simply served to moisten blacking which had been previously applied, but I was assured that the shoes of the officers on board had not seen any blacking since the ship came here quite a number of weeks ago I throw this hint gratuitously for the benefit of the American boot blacks.

THE GREAT UNKNOWN.

A Bit of Aboriginal Sculpture Found in Southern Missouri.

Texas Observer

We took occasion recently to mention a curiosity which is in the hands of Mr John Park of this city, and to give a description of it In doing so however, we made one or two slight omissions, and as it is really a wonderful piece of art, we reproduce it in order to give our readers the full benefit of a pen picture of the animal It was found by Mr J R Riggs on the 22d day of July, 1882 in the bed of Horse creek, Cedar county, Missouri

It is evidently a piece of sculpture wrought by aboriginal hands and no doubt worshiped in ages past as a deity It has the head of the armadillo in general aspect the body of the alligator beak of the eagle, forehead and arm of the rhinoceros, top of the head of the crocodile shoulders with the shield of the rhinoceros wings of the beetle tribe, tail with spo on top representing the protuberances on the alligator's tail six legs four of which are those of the common hog with feet of the African elephant and the other two web feet for swimming like those of the walrus Its belly is that of the common terrapin its two pairs between the two pairs of front legs it has the eyes of the turtle the ears of the frog and the gills of the fish, and its tail is that of the alligator Thus it will appear to represent twelve different species of living creatures, inhabitants of earth air and water And yet this wonderful combination of parts presents all the symmetry of a perfect animal. Its length is three feet and seven inches, and weighs sixty four pounds It is made of solid limestone rock and is painted in two colors by a process now unknown to art.

It was sent to the Smithsonian institution and the material out of which it was made analyzed, and was pronounced a wonderful piece of mechanism and very valuable It is certainly a great curiosity Mr Park has had it photographed and parties desiring can obtain its picture from him He proposes to take it this summer to the British museum

SPRING

Is the season in which bad or poisoned blood is most apt to show itself, Nature, at this juncture, needs something to assist it in throwing off the impurities which have collected by the sluggish circulation of the blood during the cold winter months. Swift's Specific is nature's great helper, as it is a purely vegetable alterative and tonic.

Rev L. R. Paine, Macon, Ga., writes. "We have been using Swift's Specific at the orphans' home as a remedy for blood complaints and as a general health tonic and have had remarkable results from its use on the children and employes of the institution It is such an excellent tonic, and keeps the blood so pure that the system is less liable to disease. It has cured some of our children of Scrofula."

W. H Gilbert druggist Albany, Ga., writes. "We are selling large quantities of Swift's Specific for a spring alterative and general health tonic, and with the best results. It is now largely used as a preventive and cure for Malaria. There are many remarkable evidences of its merit in this section "

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined, and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used a half dozen bottles, says it did him more good than treatment, which cost him $1000 Another who has used it for a serofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use.

VAN SCHAACK, STEVENSON & CO.

One gentleman who had been confined to his bed six weeks with Mercurial Rheumatism has been cured entirely and speaks in the highest praise of S. S. S.
